the Defender®
CHILDREN'S HEALTH DEFENSE NEWS & VIEWS

Register Now! CHD's 2nd Annual Conference • Nov. 3-5

08/01/23 • BIG PHARMA › NEWS

Infant Vaccines Linked to Increase in All-Cause Mortality, New Research Shows

A new study finds developed countries requiring the most vaccine doses for infants have higher childhood mortality rates, contradicting assumptions that more vaccines equate to lower deaths. The data suggest unintended consequences may increase all-cause mortality.

By Angelo DePalma, Ph.D.

57

CHILD MORTALITY

Miss a day, miss a lot. Subscribe to The Defender's Top News of the Day. It's free.

Developed nations requiring the most neonatal vaccine doses tend to have the worst childhood mortality rates, according to a peer-reviewed study published July 20 in Cureus Journal of Medical Science.

"Health authorities emphasize that vaccines save lives," lead author Neil Miller told The Defender. "Yet our data suggests that when developed nations require two versus zero neonatal vaccine doses, or many versus fewer vaccines during infancy, there may be unintended consequences that increase all-cause mortality."

Miller, director of the Institute of Medical and Scientific Inquiry in Santa Fe, New Mexico, has been researching this topic since the early 2000s. In a 2011 paper with the same co-author — Gary S. Goldman, Ph.D., an independent computer scientist — they showed that developed countries requiring the most vaccine doses for infants had the least favorable infant mortality rates.

Earlier this year, they replicated those results using updated data and responded to critics of their findings.

In their latest study, Miller and Goldman expanded the scope of their earlier analyses to consider the effects of two vaccines — hepatitis B and tuberculosis — both typically given soon after birth.

The study calculated the effect of these shots on mortality rates for neonates (up to 28 days post-birth), infants (up to 1 year old), and children under 5. Analyses were all based on separate data from 2019 and 2021.

Mortality data and vaccine schedules were collected from UNICEF, the World Health Organization and national governments.

Nations were categorized by the number of neonatal vaccine doses (zero, one or two) mandated for newborns to determine if statistically significant differences existed in mortality rates for the three age groups.

After applying standard statistical analyses to the data, the study found a strong association between vaccinations and rates of neonatal, infant and under-5 mortality for both years studied.

"Our findings would be considered moderate correlations which are statistically significant," Miller said. The correlations are positive, meaning that the more vaccine doses given, the higher the mortality.

"In these circumstances health authorities expect to see negative correlations, that is, a decline in mortality with more vaccine doses. So, any statistically significant positive correlation is a genuine concern," Miller said.

Miller calculated a highly significant difference of 1.28 deaths per 1,000 live births in the mean infant mortality rates between nations not giving their neonates any vaccine doses, and those requiring vaccination against both hepatitis B and tuberculosis.

For each reduction of six vaccine doses administered during infancy, the infant mortality rate improved by approximately one death per 1,000 live births.

A hallmark of good science is the good-faith openness to test one's conclusions, a practice Miller and Goldman followed here. To validate their conclusions, the researchers applied 18 different statistical analyses to the data. This is like using several different camera angles to confirm whether a tennis ball hit the line or was out.

Seventeen of 18 statistical treatments confirmed the original conclusion that the more vaccines given, the higher the infant and early childhood mortality rates.

RFK Jr./Hooker NEW book: Vax-Unvax. Order Now!

Neonatal deaths and all-cause mortality

In most nations, more than half of all infant deaths (within the first year) occur during the neonatal period (the first 28 days of life), and about 75% of those deaths occur within one week after birth when hepatitis and tuberculosis vaccines are administered.

Deaths occurring during the neonatal period have a disproportionately high impact on the reporting of infant and under-5 mortality rates, but the longer after vaccination the deaths occur, the less likely physicians are to associate them with vaccines given right after birth.

"Hepatitis B and tuberculosis vaccines given shortly after birth, when the immune system is immature and the newborn's weight is low, may increase vulnerability to serious adverse reactions and deaths that ultimately contribute to higher mortality rates moving forward," Miller said.

Globally, the top causes of premature death in the under-5 population are premature birth complications, trauma during birth, pneumonia, diarrhea and malaria. These statistics are heavily skewed by developing countries, where hygiene, nutrition, medical care and record-keeping are not up to best-in-class standards.

In the U.S., accidents and homicides are the main causes of infant and early childhood mortality. The leading medical causes for death in infants and children under 5 are developmental and genetic conditions and the consequences of premature birth.

According to Miller:

> "Premature birth and low birth weight are common causes of neonatal death, but since vaccines are administered within 24 hours of birth, when these factors are most relevant, it is possible that some of these deaths were precipitated by birth-dose vaccines.
>
> "However, since cause-of-death classifications associated with infant vaccination do not exist, doctors and coroners are compelled to misclassify and conceal vaccine-related fatalities under alternate cause-of-death classifications."

Relying on all-cause mortality instead of "vaccine-induced injury" — or some other subjective assessment of the cause of death — greatly reduces what is termed "diagnostic bias."

While considerable uncertainty may exist regarding why someone died, the death itself is not in question.

Miller discussed some of these potentially confounding factors in an earlier paper on vaccines and sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS), published in 2021 in Toxicology Reports. That study identified SIDS and "suffocation in bed" as common misclassifications: of all reported SIDS cases post-vaccination, 75% occurred within 7 days after the shots.

What does it all mean?

Although using all-cause mortality data reduces many sources of bias, it considers only inputs and outputs, in this case, vaccine doses and death. It ignores everything that happens before the dose and between the shots and death.

This means some unknown factor may be at work causing vaccinated children to expire.

But the positive correlation between vaccine doses and mortality is most easily explained by the conclusion that the number of lives saved by preventing deadly infections is fewer than the lives lost from increased susceptibility to other serious health threats.

Miller's study also found that vaccines administered shortly after birth correlate more strongly to infant mortality than to neonatal mortality.

This suggests that the negative effects of early vaccinations may be delayed, perhaps by predisposing children to adverse reactions to shots given later, or to other health threats.

Studies have shown that vaccinated low-weight infants have an increased risk of developing life-threatening apnea — sudden, unexplained breathing cessation, especially during sleep. In an earlier investigation of 30 SIDS incidents, the authors found that apnea preceded death by an average of eight weeks.

"This might explain why vaccines administered during the neonatal period are more highly correlated with deaths that occur in the post-neonatal period," Miller said.

Miller concluded his study with a plea to health authorities worldwide to reconsider mandatory childhood vaccination schedules:

> "Vaccine policymakers have an obligation to determine the full impact of their current vaccination schedules on deaths from any cause. More safety research is needed on the number of childhood vaccines that are administered concurrently, cumulatively, and the sequence in which they are given, to confirm they are providing the intended effects on child survival."

Subscribe to The Defender – It's Free!

First Name.. Last Name.. Email.. SIGN UP

SUGGEST A CORRECTION

Angelo DePalma, Ph.D.

Angelo DePalma, Ph.D., is a science reporter/editor for The Defender.

Sign up for free news and updates from Children's Health Defense. CHD focuses on legal strategies to defend the health of our children and obtain justice for those injured. We can't do it without your support

Republishing Guidelines

Children's Health Defense Comment Policy

We welcome relevant and respectful comments. Off-topic comments may be removed.

Please read our Comment Policy before commenting.

Got it

57 Comments

Login ▾

Join the discussion…

LOG IN WITH OR SIGN UP WITH DISQUS ?

Name

♡ 2 • Share Best Newest Oldest

Polly Green
15 days ago
The CDC schedule requires at least eight different vaccines within the first month, several of them administered within a few days of birth. Depending on where the birth takes place, some or all of these will occur in the birthing room.
Does anyone doubt that Big Pharma doesn't really care about infant mortality? They're in the Death industry.
23 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Polly Green
10 days ago
Either depopulation, and/or Big Pharma customers for life...you can't look at this evil any other way!
5 0 Reply • Share ›

Polly Green → Ricky Ricardo
10 days ago
There can be zero doubt about the agenda now. Those in denial will be scooped up by some facet of it eventually: MAiD in Canada or other euthanasia or lethal vaccines or God-knows-what. Cadmium in the food supply as reported here recently. Bad bad.
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Polly Green
9 days ago
The WEF, WHO and UN, each have their own agendas; but in reality - it's all the same agenda to totally take over and control humanity!
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Polly Green → Ricky Ricardo
9 days ago
And eliminate humans whenever possible—we're the carbon they want to reduce. We're well below replacement rates almost everywhere on the planet.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

ZoeyMO → Polly Green
14 days ago
No, it doesn't. The CDC schedule calls for a birth dose of hep B and a second dose that could be given at 1 month. You're thinking of the schedule for 2 months of age. The CDC schedule is a nightmare as it is without exaggeration. Let's get the facts straight.

https://www.cdc.gov/vaccine...
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Stephen Simac → ZoeyMO
14 days ago
Pregnant mothers are advised to get flu shots, DTaP and covaxxes, so those should be considered as well.
7 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Stephen Simac
10 days ago
Priority is given to pregnant mothers, "already" immunocompromised and the elderly. The intent should be obvious to any thinking person.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

mariabarnier@msn.com → ZoeyMO
10 days ago
And why on earth would a newborn need a hep B vaccine? How ridiculous is that?
0 0 Reply • Share ›

Tony "The $cience" pFauci → Polly Green
4 days ago
The thing that really gets my goat is that they claim it's evidence-based. But if all the different first world medical authorities have access to the same medical data, how do they have such wildly different vaccine schedules? If they all based it on the same data, that data can't possibly be very convincing. It's also hilarious to me that the CDC and its minions would say Dr Sears schedule is threatening children's lives when it's virtually identical to what they do and all the Nordic countries.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

lonerngr88
15 days ago
I wonder if these people will be run out of Dodge like Dr. Paul Thomas was after he published data from his practice showing un-vaxxed kids were healthier overall.
22 0 Reply • Share ›

ZoeyMO → lonerngr88
14 days ago
They have already been excoriated six ways to Sunday, but they keep on doing the work. Miller and Goldman are courageous researchers whose careers have of course been negatively affected by their stubborn insistence on telling the truth.
6 0 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC → ZoeyMO
14 days ago
Thank God for them!
3 0 Reply • Share ›

Carolyn Mathews Long → ZoeyMO
10 days ago
And Dr. Andrew Wakefield, Dr. Bradstreet (murdered?).
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Carolyn Mathews Long → lonerngr88
10 days ago
Or like Dr. Bradstreet who was working to reverse autism in children using GvMAF. He "suicided" himself.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → lonerngr88
10 days ago
There are hundreds of good (and highly credentialled/qualified) doctors who have been "run out"; yet they continue to speak the truth on various platforms and in the physical world. They will not be silenced!
3 0 Reply • Share ›

Milk_Thistle
15 days ago
"Never was humanity cursed by a blacker superstition than this, that disease can be cured and health maintained by the absorption of virulent poisons." A quote by Henry Lindlahr M.D.
21 0 Reply • Share ›

nick quinlan
15 days ago
Vaccines constitute the greatest medical fraud in the history of medicine.
They are a crime against humanity, and most especially, our children and grandchildren.
Vaccines never prevented anything, and are100% unsafe.
They are completely unnecessary, and worthless.
18 0 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC → nick quinlan
14 days ago
That's why the PREP ACT that gave Big Pharma a pass on liability MUST be repealed. Until honest research is done (or we just take 10 years off from all of these jabs to compare the results!!), these should not be mandated at all.
6 0 Reply • Share ›

Ruth → ME MCC
11 days ago
And the 1986 Childhood Vaccine Injury Act.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Carolyn Mathews Long → Ruth
10 days ago
Need to rip ability the immunity to liability. Vaccine schedule would drop to zero in about five years of massive legal settlements.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → nick quinlan
10 days ago
Sorry, Nick; but at the rate this society (and people's health) is collapsing - there won't be any grandchildren.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

Karm
15 days ago
You hope that the 600%increase in autism over the past 20 years might make parents consider this incredible increase and maybe there is something that just doesn't correlate well and maybe ask the question, why?
14 0 Reply • Share ›

Alison → Karm
15 days ago
Don't question it, or they will question you.
(I still keep questioning it, knowing there's an ugly word for vaccine-danger-warners in Dutch (my language): "wappie" . Brought to us by our demonizing politicians and media.)
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Ricky Ricardo → Karm
10 days ago
Sadly; the majority of parents are totally oblivious to the autism epidemic. There focus/attention is elsewhere.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

Jen
15 days ago
If infant vaccines are linked to Increase in All-Cause Mortality, then I think the vaccines should be completely discontinued. We should not risk the life of a single infant, over some vaccine.
14 0 Reply • Share ›

Ada → Jen
15 days ago
Absolutely! I have read that there are many unvaccinated children who are healthy and doing exceptionally well since they are dependent on their natural immune system. There were great strides made in the past with clean water facilities, refrigeration etc; and people were duped into thinking that vaccines were the cause of good health when it is not; and instead is the cause of autism and other neurological disorders, and unexplained deaths. If "Big Pharma," really believes vaccines are safe and effective; real studies should be conducted with placebos and should not only be compared to other deadly vaccines. True honest research needs to be conducted.
7 1 Reply • Share ›

Nick Robinson → Ada
13 days ago
My kids have never had a single one. I think in 14 years they have had perhaps four or five colds. One got gastro. Thats it. They heal like mad as well. My god the pressure from everyone around me... "your going to kill your kids"... "its child abuse"... and my favourite "your kids are going to spread the diseases everywhere".
5 0 Reply • Share ›

Carolyn Mathews Long → Nick Robinson
10 days ago
Yep, if all the other kids are vaccinated, they should have no worries about spreading disease...crazy think.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Bruce Thompson → Nick Robinson
10 days ago
Congratulations. I only wish I knew what I do know now, back when we had our children vaccinated in the early 1980's. No life shattering adverse events. But who knows what could have been without any vaccines.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

PonyBoy
14 days ago
I personally have never fathered any children but if I planned on doing that I would first read a book titled "Turtles All The Way Down."
This book is an in depth discussion of every vaccine on the childhood schedule, and it will open your eyes to exactly what is in these therapies and how there is "no" safety testing on them before the regulatory agencies give their approvals.
Be prepared to be shocked!
11 0 Reply • Share ›

kris
15 days ago
This is so sad.. I don't have kids, but have worked with kids ... I have seen mothers with newborns who were screaming uncontrollably for hours on end.. and telling me the doctors said there's no reason for it.. or seen mothers who were afraid to pick up their child.. worrying about 'shaken baby syndrome' ... basically this overwhelming awareness of childhood mortality .. or fear of autism.. it's out of control. I hope the general public can open their eyes to this.

I used to think it was just the general panic culture.. the fear based media exaggerating things out of proportion .. making people afraid of everything... then you look into it and find this nightmare :(😞
11 1 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC → kris
14 days ago
That's one good thing the "elites" have done for us during this PLANdemic, isn't it? Opened our eyes to the nuances of their cheating and lying and need to control the world around them, right? It has made me QUESTION EVERYTHING!!
7 0 Reply • Share ›

annemat
14 days ago
We all react to the adjuvants (toxins) injected into us when taking a vaccine. The stronger the adjuvant the stronger the immune reaction, the vaccine world demonstrates the effectiveness of vaccines by our antibody reaction in our blood from the adjuvants and then tell us "see how well it is working?" The whole thing is a racket. Why do most people think that "scientists" are free from corruption that we know is prevalent in all other businesses and industries?
6 0 Reply • Share ›

QuentonQuale → annemat
14 days ago
People have been conditioned to trust the guys in white coats. The entire field of virology is a fraud.
6 0 Reply • Share ›

TheRefusers
14 days ago
Video and transcript of my Congressional testimony about the death of my daughter Lyla from the hep B vaccine at age 5 weeks and how the NYC Medical Examiner covered it up and changed the autopsy diagnosis after talking to Merck.
http://www.laleva.org/eng/2...

Still fighting after 25 years.
https://www.facebook.com/Th...
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Kathleen Willey → TheRefusers
11 days ago
So tragic! I am so sorry▯Have you shared your story with The Highwire? They are getting ready to do a nationwide Vax versus Unvaxed bus tour.
0 0 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC
14 days ago
Why Hep B and Hep A?? Hep B is gotten through blood exchange or sex. I don't, frankly see a baby having sex nor exchanging blood with anyone other than their mother (who should be tested before delivery!)

Here's for Hep A: "Rates remain high among people experiencing homelessness and those who use intravenous drugs. Around 10,000 cases are reported each year. Experts estimate the true rate of infection is closer to 20,000.Feb 28, 2023"

Further information:
Who mostly gets hepatitis A?
Disease may occur among adolescents and adults in high-risk groups, such as persons who inject drugs (PWID), men who have sex with men (MSM), people travelling to areas of high endemicity and in isolated populations, such as closed religious groups.Jul 20, 2023

So WHY are they giving these things to BABIES??
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Stephen Simac → ME MCC
14 days ago
captured audience= exhausted parents, "best medical practices", doctors under the spell of industry funding.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC
14 days ago edited
Crazy how the DEVELOPED countries have shoddy record keeping, isn't it??

Let's look at facts: Hepatitis B is transmitted when blood, semen, or another body fluid from a person infected with HBV enters the body of someone who is not infected. This can happen through sexual contact; sharing needles, syringes, or other drug-injection equipment; or from mother to baby at birth.

Conclusion: UNLESS the MOTHER tests positive for hep b at birth, there is NO NEED for this shot at all!!! Why is it being given?? NO CHILD SHOULD HAVE THIS UNLESS PROVEN RISK!!! Also, I remember them COMBINING the medications for our child when he was young. This should not happen!! Tests are not done on combining them, only on individual shots - and the efficacy of almost all of them are questionable! If there is a 65% efficacy for a shot, that means that you can throw a coin on the ground and decide results - same as the PCR tests for c*vid.
4 0 Reply • Share ›

QuentonQuale
14 days ago
And now they've just come out with a new RSV vaccine for infants. What could go wrong?
4 0 Reply • Share ›

Sopater
14 days ago
I can't imagine how I would feel as a parent if my child died because I made them get a shot that lead to their death. Especially if I did so based on lies from the gov't and pharma.
3 0 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC → Sopater
14 days ago
Imagine the THOUSANDS of parents who have gotten their children their childhood shots and suddenly have an Autistic child when they had one with "normal" behavior before. That's also real.
2 0 Reply • Share ›

irishtap
10 days ago
Enough with the goddamn vaccines! Our 'illustrious CDC' is a cauldron of deception and godless greed, why do we allow these parasites to set "any vaccine schedule for the most vulnerable of society?!" No one can prove the toxins enhance quality of life by any meaningful measure, but they sure as hell bring significant health risks to many, many innocent trusting children. My theory is: they know precisely the harm they've done and don't dare allow for the slightest ray of sunlight, to end the carnage. Safe and effective, my ass!
2 0 Reply • Share ›

Lindsay Zipprich
14 days ago
I am sure glad I was born in 1950 before the onslaught of of a long list of vaccinations went into effect. I didn't go to school the day that Smallpox vaccination were to be given. I got the Polio vaccine but have since learned that was a bad mistake and led to many people getting sick as a result. Anyone ever read the book, "Dr. Mary's Monkeys",DDT was one of the causes of the symptoms associated with Polio. It also discusses the leadup to the development and administration of the vaccine which is rather interesting. i know many families who had no Autism in their children before vaccinations were given to their children but afterwards suddenly they are victims. How come the Amish who don't get the vaccines are the most healthy of the US and World population? How many will die or be injured because they took the Covid bioweapon death shots. Is massive death from these shots the primary objective as the end game?
2 0 Reply • Share ›

digo → Lindsay Zipprich
13 days ago
Dr. Mary's Monkey is an incredible read. Amazing how many threads are woven into this story.
1 0 Reply • Share ›

Donate Now

You make the difference.

Latest News

Dr. Pierre Kory: Why We Wrote the USA Today Op-ed on Excess Deaths — and Why We Never Mentioned 'Vaccines'

CRISPR Gene Editing: New Evidence of 'Potentially Irreversible Safety Risks'

'A Fauci Clone': New NIAID Director Oversaw Remdesivir Trials, Has Ties to Biosafety Lab Research

MORE NEWS

Latest Views

What's Behind the Rapid Spread of Red Meat Allergy — Ticks? Vaccines? Something Else?

Review Adds to Evidence That Glyphosate Weedkillers Cause Cancer

New Book by Doctors for COVID Ethics Details Dangers of mRNA Vaccines

MORE VIEWS

Get FREE News & Updates!

First Name..
Last Name..
Email..
SIGN UP

Get Text Alerts

Sign up for breaking news from The Defender.

Currently only eligible for numbers in the U.S. and Canada.

1234567890
Phone
REQUIRED. Phone number must be in a standard 10-digit format: 1234567890 or 123-456-7890

CONTINUE

kibitzer3

15 days ago

Neil Miller has been doing excellent investigatory work on this subject for years. Good on him for keeping it up.
This vaccine 'business' - and literally; a big one - is a scandal of major proportions. It needs to be brought to a halt, and emphasis placed on both prevention (nutrition) and more natural treatments for the childhood diseases. (There's vitamin A for measles; large doses of vitamin C for even polio; colloidal silver for the DTaP triad; the list goes on.) Maybe rabies and tetanus shots have value (depending on their ingredients). But it's time to give Western (drug-based) Medicine a pass, and return to more logical standards of care.

2 0 Reply • Share ›

ME MCC ➦ kibitzer3

14 days ago

The PREP ACT needs to be repealed immediately! That's what gave Big Pharma a pass regarding liability. That's the reason why they have no accountability and things are just getting worse. The CDC has been bought out by private "charity" organizations like the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and the GAVI Alliance. He's for depopulation and the continuing of his own agenda, which is to make his money grow - he buys corporations regarding whatever he is pushing. For example, he bought a testing company when covid was being pushed. He is not a good man.

1 0 Reply • Share ›

Sima Jima

10 days ago

Why risk your child's life with all these vaccines? Find pediatricians who don't take their marching orders from the UN or CDC.

1 0 Reply • Share ›

Bruce Thompson

14 days ago

It is so hard to understand how so many are willing to allow 'the fox to guard the hen house' when it comes to pHARMa and vaccines and blindly hand over our even more vulnerable babies to the disgusting medical 'gravy train' of "cradle to grave' customers. When even a cursory look 'down the rabbit hole' will leave you with so many questions as to "how could we have ever trusted them?"

1 0 Reply • Share ›

Load more comments

Subscribe Privacy Do Not Sell My Data

Children's Health Defense®

Children's Health Defense® is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. Our mission is to end childhood health epidemics by working aggressively to eliminate harmful exposures, hold those responsible accountable and establish safeguards to prevent future harm. We fight corruption, mass surveillance and censorship that put profits before people as well as advocate for worldwide rights to health freedom and bodily autonomy.

THE DEFENDER IS AVAILABLE IN:

ENGLISH SPANISH PORTUGUESE GERMAN ITALIAN FRENCH

TAKE ACTION

DONATE FREE SIGN-UP BECOME A MEMBER

Donations are tax deductible to the full extent of the law. EIN #26-0388604

© 2016 - 2023 Children's Health Defense® • All Rights Reserved • Sitemap